PASS LANGDON MEASURE

Tax Commission Bill Will Go Into Effect July 1—Closing Pleasantries.

Columbus, O., May 11.—With noticeable absence of the confusion and racket which often surround the deathbed of a legislature, the Seventy-eighth General Assembly at 6:35 p. m. yesterday adjourned sine die. When the final gavel strokes of Lieutenant Governor Treadway and Speaker Mooney registered the close, only 35 representatives and 14 senators were in their seats.

The Langdon tax commission bill, the crowning achievement of the 20 weeks' session, lengthened the session by a full two hours. The conference report was quickly adopted, only one member of the legislature, Senator Tod, voting against it. Delay came with enrollment. Chairman Tidrick of the house enrolling committee, and Lawrence K. Langdon, author of the measure, would take no chances of the marring of the bill by error, accidental or design, and not until it had been subjected to miscropic inspection was it reported for signature.

July 1 will usher in this momentous change in the taxing machinery of the state.

Local taxing officers who wink at loose assessemnt will be punished by forfeiture of office, fine and imprisonment.

The commission is armed with the weapons of injunction and mandamus and its rulings may not be enjoined except on notice and hearing.

The commission may remit taxes and is to equalize annually and quadrennially. The cumbersome system of diversified state board is swept away, save that the state board of appraisers and assessors still is to name city boards of review. The state auditor ceases to be the head of the state taxing system. The state treasurer becomes the state tax collector.

Under the bill, the treasurer will collect an estimated $1,200,000 of additional state revenue from excise taxes.

Railroads and pipe lines will pay 4 per cent on gross intrastate earnings; express and telegraph companies, 2 per cent on gross intrastate receipts: streets, suburban and interurban railroads, 1.2 per cent on gross intrastate earnings: telephone, electric light, gas, waterworks, heating and cooling, water transportation, union depot, messenger and signal companies, one and two-tenths per cent on gross intrastate receipts; private commercial corporations three-twentieths of 1 per cent on their subscribed and issued capital stock.

Speaker Mooney's final word of commendation of the session's record. He instanced the new code, the unprecedented number of "good, healthy probes," saying the Democrats were right in insisting on bipartisan investigations, and praised the taxation reforms accomplished.

Speaker Mooney referred to the unprecedented fact that there had not been a single appeal from a decision of the chair, and Judge Cyrus B. Winters, Democratic floor leader, recalled that neither the Democrats nor the Republicans had held a single party caucus during the session.

Representative Evans of Cuyahoga on behalf of all the members, presented Speaker Mooney with a gold watch and fob. For the members Representative Gebhardt of Dayton presented Speaker pro tem Ervin of Meigs with a gavel, and Representative Gilligan of Hamilton presented a gavel to Judge Winters, the minority floor leader.

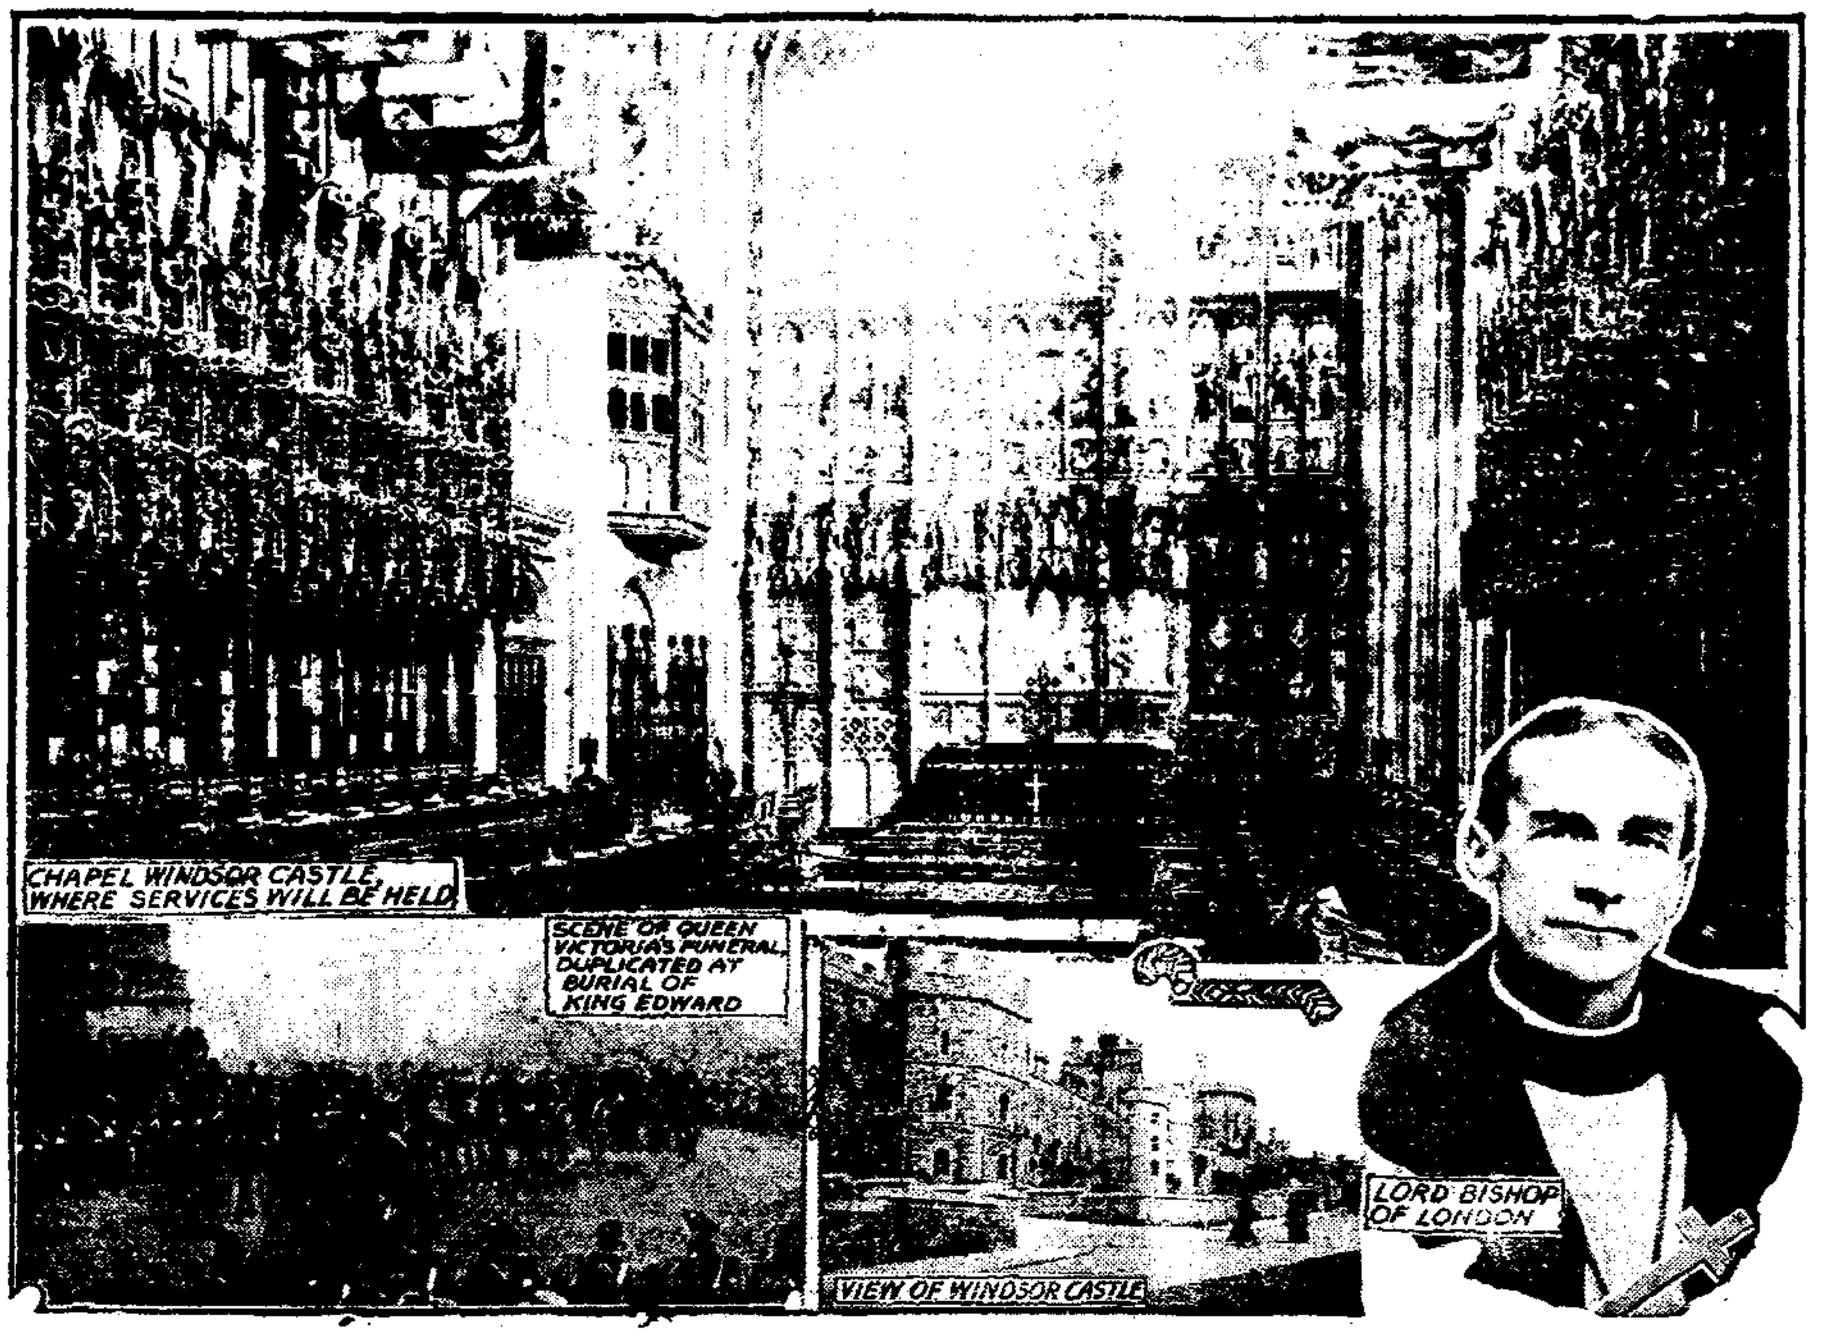

Stick pins were presented to Chief Clerk Maynard, Assistant Clerk Morrison and Sergeant-at-Arms Gallagher, while a present which he was told not to open until today, was given to Third Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms Fred Blenkner, who has been a house attache for 53 years.

Chairman Tidrick for the Amsterdam miners relief committee reported that $5000 of the $10,000 appropriated had been returned to the treasury as unneeded.

Senator Duval made a similar report in the senate.

Three bills were put through both houses under suspension of the rules, the Dean bill, allowing surviving partners to certify for the dead under the fictitious name law; the Gibbs bill, allowing the Lorain county commissioners to pay the doctor bill of Raymond Van Deusen, a jail turnkey whose skull was fractured by escaping prisoners, and the Rathburn bill, that quadrennial assessors be paid on the warrant of the county auditor.

WINDSOR CASTLE AND CHAPEL WHERE SERVICES ARE HELD OVER BODY OF KING EDWARD, AND SCENE FROM FUNERAL OF QUEEN VICTORIA

LONDON, May 11—According to present plans, King Edward will be buried at Frogmore, Windsor castle, England. Services are to be held in Westminster abbey and a second service in Windsor chapel. The scene of the funeral of Queen Victoria is to be duplicated according to program.

GOVERNOR SIGNS CRAWFORD BILL

Columbus, May 11.—Gov. Harmon signed the Crawford bill requiring railroads to settle claims for damage o goods in shipment within 60 days. If the railroad fails the state railroad commission is empowered to award damages. Shippers and business men backed the bill.

WORKING ON RAILROAD BILL

Washington, May 11.—Unmindful of the fact that the house passed the railroad bill yesterday and that it is now before the senate for concurrence, the senators proceeded today with the fixing up of a railroad bill to suit themselves. The house bill be pigeon-holed in the interstate commerce committee until the senate presents its bill to the house for concurrence. A conference will then be necessary. In all it will be nearly a month before the fate of the measure is known.

Baptist Missionary Union Wants the Granville Man for Position of Foreign Secretary.

Granville, May 11.—Denison university faces a serious crisis in the effort of the Missionary Union to secure President E. W. Hunt for the position of foreign secretary. The power and influence of Denison have had a wonderful growth under Dr. Hunt's administration and every effort will be made to hold him in Granville.

HAS TUBERCULOSIS

Baltimore, May 11.—Friends of Joe Gans will be shocked to learn today that he has tuberculosis and will never again enter the ring. On the advice of his physician, he will take a trip to Phoenix, Ariz. It is thought Gans has a little of the world's goods, put away.

HEINZE TRIAL MUST CONTINUE

New York, May 11.—Judge Hough in the United States Circuit court today refused to dismiss further indictments against Fritz Augustus Heinze, the Montana copper king, charged with violations of the banking laws, and ordered the trial to continue. The indictment of 1910, containing seven counts and the indictment of 1909 containing one count were dismissed yesterday and Heinze now stands accused on thirty counts in an indictment of 1908.

John G. Tomlinson for the defense in opening, declared Heinze would call only four witnesses.

FIRES

Are Raging in Forests of Minnesota and Calls for Assistance Were Sent to Duluth.

Duluth, Minn., May 11.—Dangerous forest fires today are sweeping from Colbyville and Arnold towards Lake Superior with alarming rapidity. Calls for assistance were sent to the Duluth fire department from the city pumping station, which for a time was in great danger.

An Iron Range passenger train had difficulty in getting through the district today.

Forest fires on the Iron Range have assumed alarming proportions and grave fears are entertained for the safety of the settlers.

At Kerrick, Minn., forest fires are raging and have been spreading for the past week. It was only by hard work that Nickerson and Duquette were saved. Fires are also raging in Bayfield county, Wis., threatening the large tracts of timber of the Hines Lumber company and the Rust-Owen Lumber company.

FOREST FIRES RAGING AND PROPERTY LOSS IS ENORMOUS

Houghton, Mich., May 11.—Forest fires are raging today over an area of 500 square miles in Minnesota and Michigan. Thousands of dollars' worth of damage has been done to railroad property and lumber land. Hundreds of farmers, miners, lumbermen and railroad section hands are fighting the flames. The town of Alston is completely cut off and may be burned. The densest pall of smoke seen in years hangs over Lake Superior, making navigation perilous.

Houghton, Mich., May 11.—The entire south half of Mosinee, Wis., has been destroyed. Every house in town has been vacated and the inhabitants are fighting to save the remaining half of the town.

BALLOONISTS

Found Unconscious Near Glasgow, Ky., Are in Serious Condition and Unable to Talk.

Glasgow, Ky., May 11.—A. Holland Forbes and J. C. Yates, found unconscious with the wreck of their balloon Viking at Center last night, are so seriously injured that they cannot be moved from the farm house of Tilford Boston. Yates' recovery is not likely. Both men are a mass of cuts and bruises. Neither is able to give a connected story of the accident.

Forbes raving in delirium, gave the only inkling of how the accident happened. He talks incoherently of a rope which dropped to avoid some danger and which tore a hole in the gas bag.

WOMAN HELD IN HEAVY BOND

New York, May 11.—Rena G. Lee, known to the police as Gypsy Queen, was held in $5000 bail today, charged with selling white girls to Chinamen.

The trial of Bell Moore and Alex Anderson, arrested with Harry Levison for trafficking in women, was postponed one week because of the illness of defendants' attorney.

Are the Kaiser and Col. Roosevelt While Watching Military Maneuvers at Doeberitz.

Berlin, May 11.—(By U. P. Staff Correspondent.)—Disregarding the advice of Prof. Frankel, noted throat specialist, Colonel Roosevelt today attended military maneuvers at Doeberitz with the Kaiser. The two chatted like boys as they rode about the drill field and Roosevelt praised the work lavishly. He grew so excited during a sham battle ending the drill that he completely lost his voice for a time.

Roosevelt tonight was the guest of Chancellor Von Bethmann Holleeg at a dinner substituted for the one planned by the Kaiser.

CONVENTION OPENED TODAY.

Cincinnati, May 11.—The biennial convention of Women's Clubs opened here today, with thousands in attendance. The composite opinion of the members was that if the women traveled more they would be better appreciated by their husbands.

Suicided in Cemetery.

Washington, May 11.—Chasing a crowd of negro crapshooters who fled to a cemetery, Policeman Jas. Morton, in the early morning hours today stalked what he supposed to be one of the fugitives behind a tombstone. Instead of a frightened crapshooter, the policeman found himself holding the cold, limp body of a dead man. Nearby Morton found a small vial labelled carbolic acid.

SPLENDID MEETING OF THE BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION

Number of Excellent Speeches—Fine Supper Served by Ladies of Plymouth Congregational Church—Next Meeting Will Probably Occur at Buckeye Lake.

Over a hundred people were present at the last banquet of the Business Men's Association which will be held in Newark this season, for the next affair will probably be held at the Buckeye Lake Yacht Club Tuesday, May 24. The club has extended an invitation to the Board of Trade to spend the day at their club house and the invitation includes the Business Men's Association.

The supper Tuesday evening was held in the basement of the Plymouth Congregational church, and it was one of the most enjoyable ever held by the association. The supper was prepared by the ladies, who exerted every effort to make it a success. Following the repast cigars were lighted and B. F. McDonald, the toastmaster, introduced the first speaker, Mr. James Fitzgibbon, who told the need of a public library in Newark extenive enough to accommodate the people.

Mr. Fitzgibbon discussed at some length the history of the Library and its purposes, the fact that there were so many people of this city who were ignorant of the Library and of what it had done. This he said was probably due to the fact that it has only been established about one and one-half years. It was organized after a resolution was introduced in the council by W. D. Fulton, providing for the appointment of a Board of Trustees and its establishment. Mr. Fulton, in addition to introducing the resolution and securing its passage, also assisted materially in furthering the proposition by gving out of his own funds $200 and may be regarded as the founder of the Newark Library. In the same manner Mr. C. W. Montgomery, who has come to the assistance of the Library in a number of different ways may be regarded as its savior.

It appeared from statements made by Mr. Fitzgibbon that there are at present 2,115 volumes in the Library, most of these by contributions of books from different citizens, principally because they had no further use for them in their own library.

Notwithstnding this there are over 2,900 patrons of the Library in this city and during the month of April the daily average number of patrons amounted to 75.

It was shown by statistics that Circleville with a population of not quite 7,000 inhabitants, had a library of over 12,000 volumes; Coshocton, with a population of 8,500, had a library of over 15,000 volumes; Mansfield, with a population of 17,000, had a library of over 14,500 volumes; Massillon, with a population of 12,000, had a library of over 16,000 volumes; Mt. Vernon, with a population of 6,800, had a library of over 8,100 volumes.

It will be seen that Newark has suffered woefully in comparison with these enterprising cities.

Attention was called by the speaker to the fact that no better investment for the moral and inellecual uplift of the community could be made than in a good library, that its dividends would be returned in a stronger, healthier and more intellectual community. At present the library is patronized chiefly by boys between the ages of 10 and 16 years.

The speaker urged the Business Men's club as a club to see whether or not a plan could not be provided by which the city council would appropriate from $2,500 to $3,000 for library purposes. In all the cities mentioned the experses of the library were defrayed by taxation.

An Interesting Talk.

William B. Goodwin, of Columbus, former president of the National Fire Protective Association of Boston, was next introduced, and he spoke at length on "Does Newark Need a Building Inspector?"

In prefacing his remarks, Mr. Goodwin said that the idea of the association was to correct many evils that are now responsible for fires in America, and that he is interesting himself in Ohio in the effort to improve conditions in many cities in this state.

Europe does not have the fires that America has, and the reason is because the buildings in most European cities are fireproof. Mr. Goodwin contrasted the cities of the old and the new world and the fire losses of the two to prove his statements.

When Napoleon was emperor of France he constructed a law that made it a crime to have fires, and individuals were held responsible. The result was that building were erected in France that were fireproof and care was exercised by the people that no conflagrations should occur.

The code Napoleon, as it was called, became generally popular in most of the European cities and even extended beyond the continent. In Havana, Cuba, the law says that if a fire starts in a home, store or factory, the man responsible must give himself up to the authorities, who will pass upon the case and decide whether or not the fire originated through carelessness or not.

This law could not be applied to America, but the law could be made so stringent that many fires could be avoided and the insurance rates would be cut. Mr. Goodwin said that in Newark a big holocaust might be avoided on account of the broad streets, but he qualified his statement by saying that block fires were possible.

In going around a city Mr. Goodwin says that many times he found the streets clean and the buildings of brick or stone, but the alleys are filled with inflammable trash and the interiors of the stores are so constructed that fires are always invited.

If there was a building code and a building inspector, fireproof buildings would not be necessary. This inspector should be an architect, but in any event the office should be divorced from politics. He suggested that the association bring the matter before the city council and ask that an ordinance be passed to regulate the construction and care of buildings and that a man be employed as building inspector.

He further suggested that a committee, composed of a lawyer, an architect and two business men draft a code to be presented to council, or, he said, the Fire Protective Association would be glad to submit different codes to the council. In closing his remarks he said that the first cities to take up the matter would be the first to profit by the restrictive code.

Save the Trees.

"The Preservation of the Court House Trees" was the subject spoken on by L. G. Vair, of Ravenna, of the staff of the Davies Tree Expert Co. The preserving of the trees was taken up years ago by John Davies, of Kent, now a man about 60 years of age, and so successful was he in saving many beautiful trees that he organized a company, and they now want to use their tree surgery on the

New York, May 11.—Mrs. Nicholas Longworth sailed on the Mauratania today, to meet her father in Europe.

BABIES BORN DURING QUAKE

San Jose, Cost Rica, May 11.—Slight earthquake shocks today terrorized the survivors of the Cartago disaster. Two volcanoes are throwing a fine lava dust over the pestilence stricken camps. A peculiar feature of the quake was the great number of babies born while the earth was rocking the city. In spite of the fact that martial law is in force many of the victims are being robbed.

FOR DRYING HAIR

Wire Frame Fastens Over Shoulders and Spreads It Out.

Usually when a woman washes her hair at home she puts a towel over her shoulders and sits in the sun, if there is any sun, to dry it. A New Jersey man has invented a device which displaces the towel and makes the drying operation quicker and in every way more satisfactory. This device is a semicircular wire frame with teeth pointing upward. A crossbar through the middle keeps it firm

After the hair has been washed the frame is fastened on and the hair spread over it, the teeth keeping the strands separated. Open in this way, the hair will dry much more rapidly than in the old way and more thoroughly. The framework is so light as to be scarcely felt and a woman can go about her household duties with it on. When not in use the dryer can be folded up to occupy but little space.

The fast going Lima crowd took the third and final game of the series from the Molder squad Tuesday afternoon thereby causing Newark to lose their fifth straight game. Hard hitting and clean play matched against weak hitting and sloppy field work was a combination that boosted the Stogie stock and sent the Molders just a little deeper in the cellar.

The fact that Newark needs new players was demonstrated more forcibly than ever, and Manager Berryhill has started to strengthen his club. There are some good players on the Newark team, but they are too few for the pennant race and classier talent will have to be secured if the local squad gets into the flag fight.

The bright spot of yesterday's game was the fielding of young Bey Hanna, who is working on the short field job. Ten chances, for the most part difficult, were offered him and he accepted them all without a wobble. The other feature of the game appreciated by the fans, even though it counted against them, was the terrific hitting of Nesser, the husky first sacker of the Stogies.

Nesser faced Doerr five times and secured five hits, one a home run with McClintock before him on the path, a two sack affair that drove two runners home, and three singles, two of them scratches, but they counted just the same. His homer was secured after Doerr caused him to swing twice on out curves, but the pitcher lost his head and shot the next ball high and close to him and Nesser connected, the ball going over left field fence.

Doherty the classy little middle precinct worker of the Stogies, did some great work for his team in field, and one catch he made off a drive by Kendall in the fifth inning, was a remarkable bit of garden work. He was given a round of applause by the fans and was forced to tip his hat several times.

There wasn't a big crowd present, but those who were there were treated to some nice ball playing, even though the locals lost. The first bit of rough edge work happened in the first frame when Doherty was safe at first on Doerr's effort to handle a slow roller. McClintock bunted nicely and Doherty was in scoring distance when Rutherford let a twister through him. Fauot grounded out to the pitcher but Nesser lined out his first hit and Doherty scored from third. Friend hit to Hanna who caught Nesser at second, making the third out.

Newark made a good start in the fifth frame, but our speed was soon checked after two runners had crossed the pan. White singled, when he, the first man up, faced young Dunnick, a city leaguer from Columbus. Minger also uncorked a single, but White was downed at third when Conley hit a slow one to Dunnick who threw to Weller. Hanna reached first when Weller pegged wild to get him, and Rutherford doubled through the middle field, scoring Minger and Conley. With two men on the bricks and but one out, Doerr strode to the plate and struck wildly three times. Kendall slapped one that was ticketed for the right field fence but Doherty captured it after a sensational sprint.

The real slaughter of the innocents was begun in the sixth by Lima and while they let up three gray clad men had romped home to the tune of [illegible]. McClintock was the boy who started it when he poked one [illegible] Frankel [illegible] Fauot sacrificed and then it was that Nesser came to bat. One ball and two strikes were called on him and then he hit the ball clean over the fence for seven feet, the last being one of the sphere [illegible] also [illegible] second [illegible] Weller [illegible] was captured [illegible] Newnham took his place on the sack when Conley wobbled. Texter hit a hot one to White who threw to second in time to get the visiting manager.

The next round resulted in a tie, as far as runs were concerned [illegible] runners from Beantown crossed the tally mat. Hanna was tapped [illegible] and was granted [illegible] going to second [illegible] Doherty [illegible] Hanna was stopped [illegible] Doherty was there with a quick steal and went to third when Long toyed with one that McClintock lined to him. Fauot's single scored Doherty and placed McClintock on third [illegible] Nesser lashed against the sphere for a drive to the left field fence. By the time the ball was returned Nesser was on second and the two runners had scored. Friend went out, Hanna to Minger, and Weller ended the fans by walking.

The visitors threatened the plate again in the ninth when Nesser singled, went to second on a passed ball [illegible] an out and tried to score when Newnham hit a bounding roller to Hanna. The little shortstop was there with the fast footwork and hurled the ball home in time to nab the [illegible] at the plate. The score:

BEHIND THE SCREEN.

Another defeat is recorded [illegible] a good [illegible] Newark [illegible] at [illegible] this morning at Portsmouth.

The Portsmouth [illegible] team [illegible] Fourth [illegible] work will [illegible] a good occasion.

Nesser, the old first sacker of Lima, is a member of the famous family of football players who [illegible] the Pan Handle team of Columbus. He is a [illegible] and as good a football player as he is first sacker and batsman.

Bey Hanna [illegible] short and demonstrated [illegible] real fielder [illegible] put outs off a [illegible] perfect plays [illegible] and he was traveling fast.

Umpire Phelan is a ball player himself, and says that he used to "crab" with the umpires just the same as the players do with him. He is a fast worker and tries to [illegible] the game by having the players hustle on and off the field and to bat.

Red White had a good day at third and handled four chances perfectly. Two of the four chances were hard ones and once he knocked down a liner that looked good for two bases.

Newark had 23 assists in the field and lost five of them. That is a remarkable number of ways for one team to handle in a contest.

The Molders are at Portsmouth for three days and then jump to Lima. Three times during the season will the jump be taken by the locals. On their return they will play Chillicothe, Lancaster and Marion.

A YEAR AGO

Lima defeated Newark in that city after 10 innings had been played. The score: R. H. E.
Lima ... 3 10 1
Newark ... 2 8 1
Batteries—Pennybaker and Fohl; Moore and Davidson.

GOODBYE, OLD SALARY LIMIT

Marion, May 11—"Bugs" Snyder, outfielder, was released by the Marion club Tuesday. It was stated by Manager Lewis that he had secured outfielders Eddie Meehan formerly of Mansfield, and Fred Eppler who received a trial with the Athletics this spring.

MAKE YOUR BOWELS YOUNG

You who have reached the later years of life realize, probably, that your bowels aren't as active as they used to be. They are inclined to clog up frequently, to be irregular; perhaps the movements aren't at all satisfying; you are troubled with constipation more and more as years pass by.

Some days you feel all bloated up; rheumatism becomes a more frequent visitor; your stomach and liver fail to perform their duties; you get irritable and out of sorts.

You should know about POTOSOTE—The Condensed Mineral Water—because POTOSOTE is especially effective in relieving constipation and its attendent ills in elderly people. It makes the bowels strong and active—gives them new life, makes them young again. It acts pleasantly, promptly, without strain, griping, nausea or other evil after-effects.

POTOSOTE is Nature's remedy—the powdered substance of the famous mineral waters. Dissolve a teaspoonful in a glass of water and drink it just as you would if you were at the springs. It is palatable, always fresh, convenient, economical and the one best way of really bringing into your own home the curative benefits of the world's most famous medicinal waters. Each package contains enough to make a gallon of Potosote Mineral Water. Begin its use today and you won't have any more Constipation or rheumatic troubles.

PENNANT WILL WAVE IN BREEZE

Lima Boosters Plan Big Opening Day For Stogie Champs—The Plans.

Lima, O., May 11—Billy Numan, the dyed in the wool baseball fan, is as usual, stirring up enthusiasm for the opening of the base ball season at Faurot park today, when Marion will appear for the first game on the home grounds. Of course, everybody that can will be there to see the pennant raised over the grandstand, but Mr. Numan wants his namesakes especially to fall in line and he addressed them in the following appeal:

"If your name is Bill you are respectfully invited to meet all the other Bills in Lima at 2 p. m. Wednesday, May 11, on the Public Square and attend the ball game, the opening of the 1910 season of the Ohio State league. Your presence will greatly encourage the 1910 champions. There will be a parade from the square to the Pennsylvania railroad, where transportation to San Pel[illegible] park will await our coming.

"There are over 400 Bills in Lima, outside of the grocery, laundry and other bills. Let us make our first appearance a success, while [illegible] doing in other towns. Any fellow by the name of Bill without [illegible] a ticket will be taken care of."

NO TRUTH IN REPORT

Rumor Circulated That Team Has Blown Up is Without Foundation. Players Signed.

There is no truth in the report that has been circulated around Newark that the Newark team has "blown up" and that Manager Berryhill has gone to [illegible] home. The team left this morning [illegible] and Berryhill was at the [illegible]. Newark's financial condition [illegible] is questioned, for there is money behind the team.

In proof [illegible] Manager Berryhill has begun to strengthen the weak spots and First Baseman Riehl, who tried out with Columbus this year, and who is a very demon with the bat, has signed and joined the team in Columbus this morning.

Another infielder is reported to have joined the club and it is probably Mark Purtell, a brother of the famous White Sox infielder, who recently became dissatisfied with his job in Decatur and bought his release.

Other weak spots are to be strengthened and the fans are assured that Newark will have a real team. There is no danger of a blow up, so simply rest easy and be prepared to boost when the boys return home from the road trip, even if it should prove disastrous in point of games lost.

NO GAME

On account of the rain at Portsmouth there was no game today and the opening of the season in that city was postponed until tomorrow.

PLAN TO HARNESS THE TIDES

An Old Story In Canada, but It is Heard Once Again.

Canada hears every little while that some one is going to harness the mighty tides of the Bay of Fundy and put them to work; but the tides have gone on doing as they please and the story has been ranked with the report—which usually originates in Maine—that gold is to be extracted from the sands of the seashore.

A tremendous amount of power is going to waste all the time in the Bay of Fundy and the scheme to put this power to some account is reasonable enough on paper. It has been proposed again by J. L. Weller of St. Catherine's, Ontario, who is organizing a company and has applied for a charter from the Dominion Government.

The tide rises in the Bay of Fundy sometimes as high as sixty feet. A rise of forty feet is ordinary. When it is remembered that the tide is either rising or falling for more than twenty hours out of the twenty-four it will be seen that there is almost continuous power.

The vast extent of the tidal area is the most difficult factor in the problem. The water sweeps up broad estuaries for the most part; at few places is there such a thing as a narrow passage through rocky walls. To harness the Fundy tide will require long stretches of heavy stone embankments.

Mr. Weller's plan, so far as he has announced it, is to build power plants below Moncton, N. B., on the Petitcodiac River, at Amherst, N. S., on an arm of Cumberland Bay, and at some points on the Basin of Minas.

The movement of the tide in the Petitcodiac River represents an energy of about 3,000,000 horse-power a day. The river bed below Moncton is more than a mile wide. The banks are gentle slopes.

It is here that the bore, a wall of water that marks the coming of the tide, is seen at its best. Its power seems quite worth while harnessing, for in spring tide seasons it is some six feet high and it rushes up the river at express train speed.

Following the bore the tide pours in steadily and forcefully. It has the strength of a spring freshet in a mountain river.

Mr. Waller's plan is to build extensive dams in the river bed, in order to force all this power into one spot. The dams would be built so as to catch the power of the falling tide as well—to get it coming and going. The aim is to develop only 100,000 horsepower at first.

The problem at Amherst seems easier, for there the water is confined within narrower limits. In the Basin of Minas the problem is the hardest, for there is little natural opposition.

There is a good market for power all around the Bay of Fundy. It could run the electric lines in the cities and towns, it could work the mills, it could be used in developing the oil lands near the mouth of the Petitcodiac and the coal mines near Amherst. The work at Niagara has made the distribution and employment of collected energy a simple matter.

Canada, however, will not believe until it sees.

A Joke on Sir Robert Ball.

Sir Robert Ball, the famous astronomer, recently told the House of Commons Committee on the Waste of Daylight that as an astronomer he thought daylight was altogether a mistake. This notwithstanding the fact that he, Sir Robert, is a yachtsman and a golf player. The author of "The Starry Realms" and of "The Popular Guide to the Heavens" is naturally addicted to the night side of things.

Being an Irishman, too, he is, of course, as much a humorist as an astronomer. On one occasion, when visiting Shakespeare's native birthplace, Sir Robert came off second best in a tilt with his erstwhile landlady. "I will give you a lesson in astronomy, madam," he said. "Have you ever heard of the great platonic year, when everything must return to its first condition? In 26,000 years we shall be here again, eating a dinner precisely like this. Will you give us credit till then?" "Yes," was the prompt reply. "You were here 26,000 years ago and left without paying. Settle the old bill and I'll trust you with the new."

Our Poultry Industry.

There is a great awakening in the poultry industry among the scientists of the country. Twenty or more States have established experiment stations and in addition, three years ago the Department of Agriculture started a station at Baltimore, Maryland. At the State experiment stations there are regular courses of instruction on poultry raising, while scientific experiments are made to determine the comparative values of different breeds and varieties, the best methods of housing and breeding, and the value of the different foods. The poultry industry has long been deserted by the scientists and in spite of them, according to figures prepared by Secretary Wilson, the value of the eggs and poultry produced on the farms last year was $620,000,000—as much as the cotton crop, seed included, or the hay or the wheat crop.

Some Busy Boys.

One thousand and sixty-four sparrows were slaughtered by Marquette (Mich.) boys during the three months of the open season for these birds and which expired with the close of February. At the rate of 2 cents a head, the feathered prey netted the youngsters a total of $21.28 in bounties. Much larger payments were made in other Upper Michigan cities.

WHAT IS POPULATION OF NEWARK IN 1910? $25 IN PRIZES OFFERED

The census enumerators have completed their work in Newark, but it will be some time before the 1910 census figures are announced.

Already people are guessing the population of Newark. Some think the figures will run to 35,000 or more, others believe the population will not go above 22,000 or 23,000. What is your idea? In 1900 Newark's count was 18,157. What is it in 1910?

To make the guessing more interesting the Advocate offers $25.00 in prizes as follows:
First prize—$10 cash.
Second prize—$5.00 cash.
Third prize—One year's subscription to Daily Advocate.
Fourth prize—Six months' subscription to Daily Advocate.
Fifth prize—Four months' subscription to Daily Advocate
Sixth prize—Two months' subscription to Daily Advocate.

In case of a tie the prizes will be divided among the winners. Anybody can guess. All that is required is to fill out the coupon clipped from the Advocate and mail or send it to the Advocate office. As soon as the official figures are announced at Washington the prizes will be awarded by a committee of disinterested citizens.

In Woman's Realm

Mr and Mrs J L Worth of East Locust street entertained with three tables of progressive euchre at their home and an exciting game was indulged in the greater part of the evening, followed by the awarding of prizes. At a late hour an appetizing two course repast was served.

The girls of the Arrahlicta club entertained with a charming little theatre party to see "Thelma and Orange Blossoms," Monday night. Those in attendance were Misses Cothine Monnett, Ruth Berry, Esther Fisher, Frances Feiff, Vernie Blagg, and Edna Tright.

Mrs. Anna Sex of West Church street entertained informally on Monday evening with a six o'clock dinner out of compliment to Mrs. Vice Wehrle and Miss Cecil Wehrle of Brazil, Indiana. Covers were spread for ten guests.

Miss Faith Roe of West Main street entertained a few friends informally but very delightfully on Tuesday evening at dinner when she announced her engagement and approaching marriage to Mr Edward M. Downer, Jr., of Pueblo, Colorado. Above the banquet table a muse basket of pink carnations and greency was suspended and when each guest was given a carnation as a favor they found fastened to its stem a dainty heart bearing the announcement. The marriage will be solemnized on June 23rd. Pretty heart-shaped place cards, bearing Cupids, done in pen and ink, seated the following guests to the serving of an appetizing course repast: Misses Pearl Mercer, Ethel Woodward, Mary Nichols, Ruth Hatch, Mabel Jones, Mrs Nora Wing of Mt Vernon and the hostess. The evening was spent informally in music and dancing.

Miss Roe is the daughter of Mrs. Eli Hoff of 66 West Main street and is one of Newark's most charming young women. She is a graduate of the Newark High school following which she studied for a time at Denison university, Granville. For the past year she has held the position of librarian in the Newark Public library.

Mr. Downer is the son of Mrs. Nora Downer and with his mother resides in Pueblo, Colorado, where he is book-keeper for a large wholesale house. Mr Downer formerly lived in Granville where his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E M Downer now reside. The old family homestead is the building now occupied by the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. The young people will make their future home in Pueblo.

With the arrival of Mrs. E. Jeanette Moore of Newark, president of the Ohio Rebekah Assembly Tuesday morning all of the prominent officers of the organization are in Lima for the purpose of attending the twenty-fourth annual meeting.

Throughout the day delegates and prominent Rebekahs were arriving and were greeted at the various stations by committees representing the three lodges of this city. Those that had made reservation of rooms at the official headquarters were taken there, while the other visitors were taken to hotels and private homes throughout the city.

Tuesday evening there will be an informal reception of officers past officers, delegates and visitors at Memorial Hall, which is in beautiful readiness for the occasion. The decorations were done under the direction of the Progressive Association and display the skilled efforts of artists.

The affair this evening will be of a purely informal nature and the local committee will be assisted in their work of entertaining by the Grand Orion Cantons. Musical selections by some of the leading talent of the city will be a feature of the session.

Many of the delegates will arrive late tonight and Wednesday morning and the organization and opening work of the Assembly will take place at Central Hall Wednesday morning. The Rebekahs colors, pink and green, flowers and plants and electrical effects have been used in transforming this spot into a bower of beauty and the public street in front of the Central building has been artistically decorated for the occasion. Large white columns are on both sides of the street and from a Rebekah emblem, suspended over the street, a chain of multicolored electric lights reaches to the tops of these columns.—Lima News.

BLUE DIAGONAL CLOTH.

One of the smartest and best-looking street suits for young girls is made after above sketch. The material is electric blue diagonal cloth, of light weight, with inset vest and belt of Russian blouse coat of black silk bengaline. The flat collar is tan silk chamois, and is made to remove easily for cleansing.

Another shade material would, of course, make up just as effectively, but this shade of blue is decidedly girlish and chic.

The Wednesday Bridge club is meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs William Schoesler in West Church street. Miss Josephine Roche is a substitute guest.

The Thursday Afternoon Bridge club will be entertained this week by Mrs. J. J. Carroll of Hudson avenue.

P. L. PRATT SEVERS CONNECTION WITH PRATT-KIRK CO.

One of the pleasant affairs that serve to bind the employer and employe more closely together, and which always impresses upon the minds of those participating that life is worth while after all, took place at the Pratt-Kirk planing mill, in the East End, Tuesday evening at the close of the day's work. Mr. P. L. Pratt, who has been connected with the firm for the past 15 years, has severed his connection with the company to accept a fine position with a similar plant in Pittsburg. During the long time Mr. Pratt has been associated with the company he has endeared himself to the employes by the courteous and manly manner he has always used towards them, and there isn't a man in the employ of the company but would go a long distance out of his way to do him a favor. The fact that Mr. Pratt had severed his connection with the firm and was about to take his leave of them caused the men to get together and consult as to what would constitute a fitting testimonial of their esteem.

A committee was appointed and a handsome gold charm with a K. of P. charm was purchased, and Tuesday evening at the close of work all the employes assembled and sent for Mr. Pratt. Mr. William Mitchell on behalf of the employes, stepped forward and in a few choice words presented Mr. Pratt with the testimonial, assuring him that he would carry with him wherever he might go the best wishes of all the employes of the plant.

Mr. Pratt was so taken aback a feeling oppression was almost overcome at this manifestation of good will on the part of the employes, and it was with difficulty he composed himself. He managed, however, to express his thanks, assuring them all that he would ever treasure the gift as one of his choicest possessions.

Of Interest to Women

What the Aeroplane Owes to Miss Catherine Wright—Brothers Experimented According to Their Sister's Calculations—Miss Wright Corresponded with Foreign Officials.

Miss Wright made the calculation and her brothers made the experiments. The three worked together. Before any demonstration was made, before her brothers had tested the machine they were building, Miss Wright knew that it was possible for man to fly. She was the first woman in the world to know it positively. She knew it because she herself had made the calculations. She was willing to stake what little money she had saved from her salary as a school teacher, along with the smaller amount her brothers had saved, upon the outcome of the device to be made according to her calculations. She staked it and she won.

When the machine was completed and was found to be a success, and it became desirable to get in touch with the nations of the world, it was Catherine Wright who brought the aeroplane to the attention of the men who would have to be dealt with. The letters which the representatives of foreign governments received were written by this woman in the name of her brothers.

All this time Miss Wright was going daily to the schoolroom. Even their neighbors did not know she took any interest in the flying machine. They knew that it was characteristic of the Wrights to be devoted to one another. But they did not know that this patient school teacher had mastered the intricacies of the air and that she had been in correspondence with governments, carrying on the promotion end of the flying machine.

Even after the Wright aeroplane had become famous and her brothers were demonstrating it to the world, Miss Wright continued her occupation of teaching. It was not until Orville Wright met with the accident at Fort Wright, which came near costing him his life, that she gave up her position and hastened to him. She remained until he was able to travel, took him home, nursed him to health and accompanied him on his trip to France.

Her Sad Mistake.

The clubwoman closed her book on "Domestic Responsibility," and, with a tinge of remorse, went out on the lawn, where her children were at play.

"Mary," she informed her children's nurse, "I've neglected my young ones for the clubs too much these last few years, and I'm going to try and make amends. Now, this afternoon I intend to dress one of them with my own hands and take it for an outing in the park."

It was quite late that afternoon when the reformed clubwoman, after pushing a go-cart containing the youngster she had selected and prepared for its outing about the spacious public park for several hours, started toward home. She had hardly come within sight of it when the nurse rushed up, palpably agitated.

"Oh, mum—"

"The child's all right, Mary," the mother announced, by way of assurance. "I humored it all the afternoon with sweets and fruit."

"But, mum," cried the nurse, endeavoring to regain her breath, "Mrs. Smith next door's been scared into a fit, the perlice has been notified and—or, Lord, mum!"

"Don't act so, Mary! Why should you get so excited over that hysterical Mrs. Smith?"

"You've gone and took her child, mum!"—Tit-Bits.

Dangerous to Suppress Feelings.

It is better, especially if you are a woman, not to suppress your emotions, advises Dr. Samuel McComb, of Emmanuel Church, Boston, writing on causes of nervousness in Harper's Bazar. These strangulated emotions, these griefs and moral wounds and deep-rooted but frustrated desires of which you never speak even to your dearest, are the causes of your headache, your nervous dyspepsia, the irritation of your blood and flesh. Have a heart to heart talk with a dear friend or a trusted adviser, and watch them disappear. Women, especially, will carry moral wretchedness concealed in their hearts for years, says the writer, with the inevitable result of a nervous catastrophe. Mr. McComb thinks such as these will do well to relieve themselves by confiding their troubles either to a wise minister of religion or to a psychologically trained physician."

Laughs at Superstitions.

Mrs. Peter Lee of Grand Rapids, Mich., believes it is lucky to walk under a ladder and to raise an umbrella in the house. She laughs at superstition, and never is happier than when she spills salt or breaks a mirror. Thirteen has been her lucky number. Many of her brightest experiences have fallen on the 13th of the month, and on August 13, which was a Friday, she gave birth to her thirteenth child.

An excellent way to brush down dusty walls is to take a roll of cotton batting and fasten a thick pad of it on the end of a stick. With this go over all the wall surface, burning the cotton as it becomes soiled and renewing the pad. This method is economical and efficient—more so than the ordinary cloth, which is too limp to do the work well.

Two and Twenty Recipes for Melancholy.

With a beautiful physical world all about hinting at a still more beautiful spiritual world behind it, it seems strange that anyone should be melancholy. But many a man and woman is. "My sister is getting melancholy," says a woman. "We are terribly worried about her." "Have you heard about Mrs. Blank?" inquires another. "She is melancholy. The doctors hold out no encouragement of improvement. She won't do anything they tell her." And so it goes. On all sides one hears of men and women who are melancholy, who are missing all the joy and brightness and glory of life because of this depression of spirits.

What can mend this gray and gloomy state? The doctors seem to fail with their drugs, but surely it can be mended, for it is not the normal state. And what is not natural must disappear before the onward march of truth, which has had the right of way through all time and ultimately has ever triumphed. One cannot look at the sky and the sunshine and the flowers and all the beauty provided us so generously without feeling that happiness was intended to be the portion of mankind. Melancholy was never created by the Giver of All Good Gifts. It is only a creation of our own. And what we create we can destroy.

Sidney Smith says he once gave a lady two and twenty recipes against melancholy. One was a bright fire; another to remember all the pleasant things said to and of her; another to keep a box of sugar plums on the mantelpiece and a kettle simmering on the hob. Others suggest as a cure for melancholy to keep some humorous story handy and dip into it regularly once a day. The works of Mark Twain, John Kendrick Bangs and Jerome K. Jerome have all been mentioned for the purpose. A visit of a week or so to see some good, funny play if one can be found is recommended. Some doctors have even prescribed pretty new clothes for the melancholy woman. These cures are all little things, as you can see. Melancholy is in itself a big thing, but the enemies that can rout it are little. It is a case again of the lion and the mouse.

Try some of these cures. They are easy enough to try, they are so simple. It will require an effort, perhaps, to try even the simplest for melancholy is a disease that inclines one to be inert, to resist making an effort. But make the effort and if the simplest of these cures is selected for the initial experiment, the effort need be but slight. But the dent will be made and, though the impression at first may scarcely be noticeable, still it is there and will become deeper by persistent repetitions.

But you must do it yourself. No one can make the effort for you. If you determinedly shut your eyes, no one can make you open them to see the sun shining and the flowers blooming. But why shut them to all the beauty and joy that is about? Try one of the little cures and then another and they will gradually rout the giant melancholy that is eating all the joy out of life.

If ever anyone had an excuse to be melancholy it was Robert Louis Stevenson when he thought upon his health. But he cheerily sings:

"The world is so full of beautiful things,
I'm sure we all should be as happy as kings."

He made friends of the little enemies of melancholy. He looked up at the stars and down at the flowers at his feet and out at the open sky. He even extracted humor from an obstreperous donkey. In the face of the beauty and the amusement and the interest in the world all about him, he had no time to sit and brood. He had too much fun enjoying life to waste time in being melancholy. Open your eyes to the good and the beautiful as he did and you will no longer sit in darkness.

What the great motive was for a magazine campaign of puffery of the great reform mayor of Columbus need not be misunderstood. But the carnival of crime that pervaded the Capital City as soon as the reform mayor got his administration fairly inaugurated, thoroughly disgusted many of the city's fair-minded citizens, and especially his independent supporters. Never in the history of Columbus had such an unrestrained exhibition of crime been in evidence. Consequently the fulsome eulogies of the great reformer's administration of Ohio's capital would not look well in the magazines, and they never appeared. It was not a case wherein hypocrisy could succeed.

Certain Republican newspapers are making the ridiculous and unfounded charge that the defeat of the Woods Utility bill in the Legislature was wholly due to the opposition of Governor Harmon. Now, will these same newspapers tell the public how the Governor was to blame for the action of the nine Republican Senators who voted against the bill? It was the votes of these Senators that caused the bill's defeat.

UNJUST ASSAULT ON POLICEMEN

The unjust criticism in the American-Tribune Tuesday evening regarding the police force of Newark was entirely undeserved.

It is a well known fact, and the records of the department are ample proof, that whenever any of the patrolmen are lax or derelict in their duties they are properly reprimanded and if necessary harsher measures are used by a dismissal from the force. The article referred to above said in part:

"We do not make the charge that the police are cowards but simply call attention to the fact that they are afraid of their jobs and do not desire to make any move that would be contrary to the wishes or the policy of the head of the department. It was that same idea which prevented any of the men from volunteering to go to Hebron Sunday evening when the report came from there that Ame, who cut Clay, was in that vicinity because some one in authority decided that he had gone in another direction, and it would not do to contradict the authority. A probable murder had been committed, a man so badly cut that it is doubtful now whether he will recover, the police were supposed to be searching for him, and yet when a possible clue to his whereabouts came in it was thrown aside because he was not supposed to have gone in that direction, and it was not until the man was actually captured by two farmers and could not get away that the police were sent after him.

"Was it the desire of this city administration to have the man get away? Was the action taken in accordance with the system adopted by Mayor Atherton long ago of never punishing if he could get out of it?

"Or was this simply in the line of not doing anything that could possibly be avoided?"

To the fair-minded reader an answer to the above would hardly seem necessary. Regarding the charge that the patrolmen will not make any move contrary to the wishes of the head of the department they are in a measure partly right. Neither will a good soldier become insubordinate to his commanding officer. Patrolmen are subservient to their chief, but the latter is always ready to listen to their suggestions and if he deems it wise act upon them.

The Tribune asks why officers were not sent to Hebron Sunday evening on a possible clue. The answer is that had Chief Zergiebel detailed men on all clues received by him he would have had to swear in a score or more of extra men.

"Was it the desire of this city administration to have the man get away?"

This question is so ridiculous that it is hardly worth answering. When word came to Chief Zergiebel of the cutting affray he called on all his men on duty at the time and put them on the case. Officers Swank and Burke, who had been on duty all day, were assigned plain clothes duty and stationed themselves near Ame's grocery thinking he might return during the night. They kept up their vigil all night until dawn though a severe storm was raging a greater part of the time. Chief Zergiebel telephoned descriptions of the fugitive to all surrounding towns and asked them to be on the lookout. He was preparing to send out cards with pictures of Ames when word came that he had been located near Hebron. He had not been captured and probably would not have been had not Chief Zergiebel requested the Hebron men to secure guns and hold the suspect until his officers could get there in an auto.

The work of the police force of Newark will compare favorably with that of other cities and while it has been necessary on account of a lack of funds to reduce it materially yet it has accomplished much good in running down thieves and criminals. It is true that Newark has had a wonderful growth during the past decade, almost doubling its population. An attempt has been made to keep up the efficiency of the force necessary and although working under a handicap the department should be commended for the excellent showing it has made, instead of being condemned simply on account of petty jealousies that exist among a few disgruntled politicians.

MERELY A SUGGESTION

Since Halley's Comet is a "bird," why not catch it in the approved style by putting salt on its tail?

TAFT'S DESERTED WAIF.

Why should the g. o. p politicians in Ohio make a fuss about the defeat of the Woods utility bill by the state senate?

After Taft disowned it they couldn't expect the Democrats to adopt their discredited and discarded political waif.

If it was not good enough for Taft in the first place they will have a hard time trying to make anybody believe that it was good enough for Democrats in the last place.

They started in at the beginning of the session to make a political football of this measure and succeeded beyond their most sanguine expectations. Therefore, there is nothing for them to howl about over the final score of 22 to 10 against Taft. And the more they howl about it the more ridiculous they make it for the president.

Nine Republican Senators voted against the bill.

Philadelphia Record: In the extra session of Congress the Republicans of both Senate and House well-nigh unanimously voted for the income tax amendment to the Constitution. Nearly all the Republican Senators and members who spoke on the question declared that they were heartily in favor of its ratification. But one after another of the Republican State Legislature is rejecting it under some mysterious influence. With this, as with the tariff and other important questions the purposes of the Republican party are as equivocal and deceptive as were the windy decrees of the oracle of Dodona.

Probably ten times more everlasting good would result from the drainage of the Florida everglades than from building a fleet of battleships—and how much less it would cost!

Overstudy by Children Weakens Body and Mind.

By Dr. JESSIE T. BOGLE, Children's Specialist, of New York.

NO matter what most parents think about their own particular prodigies, the modern child is neither a John Stuart Mill nor a Macaulay, and its education should begin and end with that fact in view.

The chief reason we have so many people of mediocre intelligence in all the walks of life today, whether in professions or business, is because an effort was made to "CRAM" their heads full of knowledge at a time in life when they were PHYSICALLY UNFITTED for it, with the result that they have been WEAKENED MENTALLY. There has never been a record kept of those children who have died of overstudy, but there are many. It is inevitable with the ordinary child that the MUCH ENFORCED STUDY WILL INEVITABLY END IN A BREAKDOWN, either mental or physical.

I think the proper way to train children is by DEMONSTRATION, BY LECTURES and by practical lessons. Children should not be put into school at all until they are able to understand lectures, and then the lessons should be made attractive for them. There would be no cry of breaking down from OVERSTUDY if most of the studying was done in this PRACTICAL WAY.

No child should be made to study anything for which he or she shows no particular aptitude.

I DO NOT BELIEVE IN THE OLD FASHIONED WAY OF MAKING CHILDREN MEMORIZE PAGE AFTER PAGE AND CHAPTER AFTER CHAPTER OUT OF TEXT BOOKS, OF WHICH THEY POSSIBLY KNOW NOTHING AFTER THEY HAVE MEMORIZED THEM.

ALDRICH TRIES TO WIN RECRUITS

Back on the Job to Pass the Railroad Bill.

TAFT STILL CONCILIATORY.

Will Remain More In Washington. Cancels Date at Brooklyn Navy Yard—Will Take the Best He Can Get. Tariff Board to Have More Power.

Washington, May 11.—Notwithstanding the fact that he is going to retire at the end of this congress Senator Aldrich is back on the job and is preparing to make the insurgents either come into the reservation or take to the tall timber. The president is credited with similar designs. The things that have been happening to the railroad bill have been such that they have not filled the bosoms of the Rhode Island senator and the head of the administration with sentiments of "peace on earth, good will to men." There are at least six men that are now considered outside of the good will pale. They are the dyed in the wool senate insurgents, and their names are La Follette, Cummins, Clapp, Beveridge, Dolliver and Bristow. There are also some "near insurgents" who break over occasionally that need laboring with. The six are regarded as past redemption. In the house the case is even worse, but there no attempt at a lineup is possible for the reason that since Cannon was drubbed there is nobody to take the situation in hand. Just what the outcome will be nobody can tell, but my own guess is that congress will get through some sort of railroad bill even yet. It will not be the bill that Wickersham wrote, may not even resemble that document in anything except the enacting clause, and yet it will be a railroad bill with many meritorious features.

Other Measures Uncertain.

As to the other Taft policies, everybody is even more at sea than on the railroad bill. The postal savings bank is still slumbering peacefully in the house committee, the anti-injunction bill has not been heard from in several blue moons, the conservation bills are still alive, but gasping for breath; the statehood bill is wigwagging to Beveridge for help, the ship subsidy bill is dead for this session, and the federal license bill has been dead so long that members have difficulty in remembering its name. This is the state of the case near the middle of May, the date originally set by Senator Aldrich for adjournment. To put the case in a nutshell, five months and nearly one-half are gone and not one of the Taft policies has been enacted into law.

Taft Still Insistent.

There are some cheerful aspects to the situation, however. One is that President Taft is still hopeful and still disposed to be conciliatory, so far as that is possible. If he cannot get all he wants he is disposed to take what he can get. His only insistence is that his program shall be put through in some form. So far as ship subsidy and federal license are concerned, he abandoned both long ago, but he is still desirous of a railroad bill, postal savings banks, conservation, anti-injunction and statehood measures and is prepared to do everything in his power to press these through. If he cannot get them all at this session he will insist on them at the next. He believes that he can get most of them, at least in a modified form, at this session. For one thing the president will stay more in Washington than in the past. He has already canceled his engagement for the launching of the Florida at the Brooklyn navy yard.

Appropriation For Tariff Board.

In one aspect distinct progress has been made. The civil appropriation bill which has been reported to the house contains $250,000 for the tariff board in compliance with the president's recommendation. Not only so, but specific powers are conferred on the board to investigate all tariff questions, including cost of production at home and abroad.

Strained Relations In Navy.

The clash in the navy department of which so much has been said in the press of late is no new thing. It dates back to the first efforts of Secretary Meyer to reorganize the navy. In the hearings before the house committee two of Meyer's subordinates, Chief Constructor Capps and Paymaster General Rogers, openly opposed the Meyer plans, and there have been strained relations between them and their chief ever since. To further complicate the situation there has been some disposition in congress to side with the two subordinates, or at least to see that they are not disturbed for offering testimony when called to do so by a house committee.

Oleomargarine Law Defective.

According to the testimony of Internal Revenue Commissioner Royal E. Cabell before the house committee on appropriations, there are flagrant violations of the law to prevent the sale of oleomargarine as butter. Mr. Cabell says the courts have held that the enforcement of the oleomargarine law does not come under the head of the internal revenue department, and for that reason no assessment of penalties for violating the law is possible. The house will attempt to pass legislation to remedy the defect in the law.

A GOOD MARK

Set your mark high when you set your mind on paint.

The price per gallon is the last thing to think of.

Paint prices don't vary so much, but PAINTS do.

A gallon of paint for a given price is one thing; a gallon of GOOD PAINT is another.

Measure your paint by the distance it goes—measured in units of feet and of YEARS. Measured by that standard,

AURORA MIXED PAINTS

are in class A—and at the head of the class.

AURORA means an honest lead and oil paint, combining the old-fashioned principles of our forefather painters with the modern mixing methods of today.

It has the stuff in it; it's REAL paint, the kind that goes far, looks well and wears long.

If your painter prefers some other paint than AURORA it would pay you to prefer another painter.

Cook in Comfort

You no longer need wear yourself out with the weakening heat of an intensely hot kitchen. You can cook in comfort.

Here is a stove that gives no outside heat. All its heat is concentrated at the burners. An intense blue flame (hotter than either white or red) is thrown upwards but not around. All the heat is utilized in cooking — none in outside heating.

New Perfection
WICK BLUE FLAME

entirely removes the discomfort of cooking. Apply a match and immediately the stove is ready. Instantly an intense heat is projected upwards against the pot, pan, kettle or boiler, and yet there is no surrounding heat—no smell—no smoke.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

Why? Because The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is scientifically and practically perfect. You cannot use too much wick—it is automatically controlled. You get the maximum heat—no smoke. The burner is simple. One wipe with a cloth cleans it—consequently there is no smell.

The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is wonderful for year-round use, but especially in summer. Its heat operates upward to pan, pot, or kettle, but not beyond or around. It is useless for heating a room.

It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot.

It has long turquoise-blue enamel chimneys. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

FARMER'S WIFE HAD HEAP TO DO

Mrs. Shepherd Was in Bad Shape When She Could Not Stand on Her Feet.

Durham, N. C.—"I am a farmer's wife," writes Mrs. J. M. Shepherd, of this city, "and have a heap to do."

"Four months ago I could not stand on my feet, to do anything much, but at this time I do the most of my work. I took Cardui and it did me more good than all the doctors.

"You don't know half how I thank you for the Cardui Home Treatment. I wish that all women who suffer from womanly trouble would treat themselves as I have."

Ladies can easily treat themselves at home, with Cardui, the woman's tonic. It is easy to take, and so gentle in its action, that it cannot do anything but good.

Being composed exclusively of vegetable ingredients, Cardui cannot lay up trouble in your system, as mineral drugs often do. Its ingredients having no harsh, medicinal effects, and being non-poisonous and perfectly harmless, Cardui is absolutely safe for young and old.

Ask your druggist. He will tell you to try Cardui.

$200 REWARD FOR ARREST OF RALPH BANE

The sheriff of Los Angeles, Calif., joins with the chief of police at Santa Monica in offering a reward of $200 for the capture of Ralph Bane, a former Newark young man, the story of whose flight and embezzlement was told in this paper recently.

Bane is 32 years of age 5 feet 10½ inches high, weight 160 pounds. He is supposed to have between $5000 and $10,000 in his possession at the present time. In addition to the $200 reward, the city of Santa Monica offers 5 per cent of all money found in his possession.

Bane, who was tax collector and treasurer of Santa Monica, absconded on April 29, leaving a shortage of about $15,000 in his accounts.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— How the Elephant Remembered

"THIS evening's story is going to be a circus story," said daddy. "I know all youngsters like to hear about the circus, with the clowns and animals."

"I do, daddy," said Jack—"specially about the elephants."

"Very well," said daddy. "It shall be an elephant story, then.

"Many years ago there was an Englishman in India, where the elephants come from. Over there the elephants are made to work, and very useful they are, too, for they are very strong and easily taught. This man was in charge of a herd of elephants that were used to haul timber. He liked the elephants, and they were fond of him, so when he had spare time he taught them tricks. One of the tricks which he taught his pet elephant, a very large animal, was to lift him up in his trunk and place him on top of his head. I think, Jack and Evelyn, that you have seen elephants do the trick at the circus.

"Well, after many years the man had to leave India, for his health became bad. India, you know, is not a very good place for a white man to stay in a long time. He was very sorry to leave his elephants, and after he was gone they seemed to be sorry to have lost him. But, of course, he could not take them with him.

"The man went back to England to live. One day, years and years after he had left India, a circus came to the town where he lived, and the man took his little grandson to see the circus.

"When the little boy and his grandfather were on their way to the circus the boy told his grandpa that the first thing he wanted to see at the circus was the elephants, such as he had often heard his grandpa talk about. So the first thing they did when they reached the circus was to look for the elephants. One of the elephants belonging to the circus was an immense big one. As soon as the man and his grandson reached his stall and stood in front of it the elephant stretched out his trunk, wound it around the man, lifted him up and put him on his back.

"At first the man was frightened, as well as the little boy and all the people around the stall. But when they saw that the elephant did not mean to hurt the man and soon reached up again and placed him safely on the ground they asked him what had made the elephant act so.

"'That is my old friend elephant, which I taught to do that trick in India many years ago,' said the man. 'When he saw me here, although he had not seen me in forty years, he remembered me and thought he would please me by doing the old trick again. He is one of the best elephants in the world.'

"You may be sure that that elephant did not lack for peanuts while the circus remained in town," said daddy.

The Newark Monument Co.

The Newark Monument Co., of 11 Church St., has completed the erection of a cut design memorial surmounted by a cross, on the James Murphy lot in Mt. Calvary cemetery.

Panhandle Pay Car.

The Panhandle pay car will arrive here on Thursday about noon, when the employes at this point will be given their envelopes for the month of April. There are more persons employed by the Panhandle Railroad Co. in Newark than is generally supposed, and the payroll amounts to a good little sum.

Wheat Advances.

During the past week wheat has jumped in price 5 cents and is now bringing $1 a bushel again, that being the price that is being paid at the Hulsizer mill. About a week ago 95 cents was paid per bushel, that being the lowest price paid during the winter. Since then the market has been gradually growing stronger and reached the dollar mark again several days ago.

Building Activity.

While there has been very little doing in the building line in Newark for some time, still the signs point to a revival of business in this line, and the indications are that there will be quite a little building done in Newark during the coming season.

HALLEY'S COMET

(Copyright, 1910, by Frederic Campbell.)

May 11—Halley's comet rises today 2:26 a. m.; tomorrow 2:08 a. m. Sun rises 4:42. Comet's speed today, about 1695 miles per minute.

The program is an extended one and will be taken part in by about thirty of the most famous singers of Columbus.

Service Properly Appreciated.

Mr. Daniel F. Gormley, who has been one of the assistant sergeants-at-arms of the House at Columbus during the two sessions, is one of the few in that service who is retained until all the details pertaining to the session are cleared up. Mr. Gormley has been one of the most popular of all the House employes during the entire time of his service.

Clay Improving.

The condition of Charles Clay continues to improve and he rested better last night and today than at any time since he was stabbed by Joe Sarsonia, alias Ame, an Italian, during an altercation in the latter's store Sunday afternoon. His pulse and temperature are about normal and the attendants at the Sanitarium are entirely satisfied with the manner in which he is gaining ground.

DOCTOR TOLD HER TO USE CUTICURA

And Thus Cured a Scalp Disease Like Scald Head—It had Lasted Several Months and Made Most of the Sufferer's Hair Fall Out.

TROUBLE SOON GONE AND NEVER RETURNED

"When I was ten or twelve years old I had a scalp disease, something like scald head, though it wasn't that. I suffered for several months and most of my hair came out. Finally they had a doctor to see me and he recommended the Cuticura Remedies. They cured me in a few weeks. I have used the Cuticura Remedies, also, for a breaking out on my hands and was benefited a great deal. I haven't had any more trouble with the scalp disease. Miss Jessie F. Buchanan, R. F. # Notes and Comment

Of Interest to Women Readers

THE MATRIMONIAL DIARY

Is Looming Large in the Divorce Courts.

Within recent months we have noted that more and more frequently diaries have been introduced into divorce trials kept by one or both parties to the suit. Sometimes these diaries were begun long previous to any open disagreement between man and wife, when one or the other may have been unconscious of any infelicity between them. In such a case the unsuspecting one, all ungarded in his or her innocence, has been daily recording in the accusing book, every act that would be prejudiced in the eyes of court or jury set down in black and white and in cold blood. There is no distinction in law between divorce sought in a hot temper and divorce with malice aforethought.

We sincerely trust that the "holy bonds of matrimony" will not become generally vitiated by the practice of keeping a diary dating from the wedding day, and that bride and groom will not feel that reasonable precautions should be taken against emergencies. A diary in the possession of either one of the "happy wedded pair" may be regarded with suspicion and may introduce the first serpent into their Eden. It is carrying concealed weapons into the connubial state, and diary toting of this sort is as reprehensible as gun toting.

The distrust of humanity that is often so marked in the ordinary relations between man and woman appears to have extended itself to the relations between man and woman. It is not only when poverty comes in at the door that love flies out at the window; when doubt comes in at the window, love slips out of the door. Modern marriages with their "mental reservations" and their diaries may give the grieving contenders against "the divorce evil," another phase of the question to ponder over.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Warning to Sniffers.

"For the love of a man," a Topeka girl wrote, and then took carbolic acid and died. It was the reading of the incident that Atchison (Kan.) doctors have agreed was the cause of a certain Atchison woman's serious illness. She gave a sniff of contempt when she read of a girl who killed herself "for the love of a man," and sniffed so hard that the sniff went in and affected her vital organs. The woman is married, has seven children, works like a farm hand in harvest, though her husband is in good circumstances, and hasn't had an outing in ten years. Doctors say that this sniffing in contempt is apt to prove serious when a woman sniffs as hard as this woman sniffed. She put in that sniff all the disappointment all the contempt, all the bitterness, all the heartache of fifteen years, and the sniff simply shattered her whole system and displaced half her interior.

Wealth a Burden.

Mrs. Howard Gould's testimony that a woman ought to have $40,000 a year for dress is being generally discussed by American women. After calculating the amount of time occupied at the dressmakers and in dressing and undressing the average woman is apt to ask whether any rational enjoyment can be derived from such a life. Wealth becomes a burden when it entails such waste of time and energy, not to speak of the expenditure of money. The simple life is more attractive.

PHIL MAHER STOCK CO.

The Phil Maher Stock Co. added two more successes to their list at the Auditorium theatre yesterday when they produced "In Montana" at the matinee performance, and "Barney Blough from Boston" in the evening. Both plays were excellently presented by this admirable company and pleased the large audiences present. Mr. Maher appeared to advantage in the comedy roles of both plays and demonstrated his versatility and ability as an actor of widely diversified characters. The entire company appeared to advantage. The specialties introduced between acts are pleasing and fully up to the standard, being in themselves a complete vaudeville show. For the performance tonight the English melodrama, "Saved From the Sea," will be offering. As the story of the play is taken from the celebrated poem of "Enoch Arden," it is sure to be full of heart interest and the comedy is said to be unusually strong. "Thorns and Orange Blossoms" will be given at the matinee Thursday.

THE DUMETRESCU TROUPE, ORPHEUM.

THE ORPHEUM.

Vaudeville of a very high grade and excellent entertaining qualities is being presented at the Orpheum theatre this week and to very good sized audiences at every performance. The Dumetrescu troupe of bar performers are the headliners and they well deserve to be featured, as they certainly do stunts on the bars that are wonderful. The comedy in the act helps to liven up the work and their acts receive much applause and they pull down a merited success. Hall and O'Brien, with their rough and ready comedy, interspersed with witty sayings, songs, etc., win shouts of laughter and applause. Gus Williams, that funny German comedian, as an added attraction, is very funny, and his original songs and jokes have made a big hit with our patrons. It is perhaps not known locally, but Mr. Williams is one of the original organizers of the Elks lodge, he being a life member of No. 1, New York city. Gibney and Earl close the show and with their clever work they seem to inject new life and interest in the whole program. There is not a dull moment in their act. It is pure, unadulterated acting, so closely resembling the real thing that you nearly forget that you are looking at "make believe." Today will be your last chance to see the above clever program, as starting with the matinee tomorrow another good program is offered in Boyd and Moran, comedy singing and dancing artists; Polly Harger, singing soubrette; Lola Milton & Co., presenting a musical sketch, "That Girl," and the Cubanola Trio, dancers, etc. also new pictures in the Orpheumscope.

Already the amateurs are commencing to send in their names and [illegible] promises several new things for Friday night.

MARGARET EARL, ORPHEUM.

FINE CONCERT AT RECITAL HALL IN GRANVILLE

Marcossen - Heydler Trio Greeted With Crowded House—Alumni of Denison Banquet at Boston.

Granville, May 11.—One of the most delightful and thoroughly enjoyable musical events that it has been the pleasure of the music loving people of Granville to attend during the present semester of Denison university was that given by the Marcosson-Heydler Trio in Recital hall Tuesday night, under the auspices of the Denison Conservatory of Music. There was a large and appreciative audience present, and the different numbers were listened to with enraptured attention. The trio is composed of Mr. Marcossen who is an artist in every sense of the word. He studied in Berlin with the great Joachim and others, and he is the owner of one of the celebrated violins of the world, the great Stradivarius, which Remenyi used. It was made in 1721 and sold recently for $1,000. Mr Heydler has been known to Granville people for several years. He played in good style and is highly artistic. Mrs. Marcosson gave great pleasure to her listeners and displayed much skill and technique. The ensemble work was admirable, there being that sense of intimacy on the part of the individuals without which good work would be impossible. The program was as follows:

Rubinstein....Trio in B-flat, Opus 52
Allegro
Adagio
Presto
Allegro appassionato
Origo .................. Serende
Beethoven .......... Mennet in G
Popper .......................... Vito
Mr. Heydler
Rachmaninoff .............. Serenade
Henselt ........... If I Were a Bird
Saint-Saens ............. Scherzetto
Mrs. Marcosson
Beethoven, From the Trio, Op. 1, No. 1
Adagio
Presto
Debussy ................ En Bateau
Dvorak .................. Humoresque
Paganini ................... Etude in E
Mr. Marcosson
Gade...... From the Trio, Opus 42
Andantino
Finale

Go where you will, any place in the United States, and you will be sure to find Denison men. This fact was demonstrated most emphatically at the recent meeting of a large number of alumni of Denison and Shepardson colleges, held in the Commonwealth Hotel, Boston, Mass. The meeting was held for the purpose of taking the preliminary steps towards the organization of a Denison Society, and was the first of what promises to be an annual Denison Alumni Banquet in New England. There were thirty-five enthusiastic Denisonians present at the banquet and the affair was a most marked success. The success was largely due to the efforts of Mrs. E. S. Shepardson and Mr. Earl K. Bull, both of Boston. The dining room was tastefully decorated with college pennants, among which Denison and Shepardson colors were well represented. Mr. Earl K. Bull, '05, acted as toastmaster. The menu cards for the occasion bore a fine picture of Dr. E. W. Hunt, president of Denison university.

Many enterprising amateur gardeners in Granville have regaled themselves with onions, lettuce and radishes, fresh from their own little gardens, during the past two weeks.

Notwithstanding the abnormally early spring, farmers will be late planting their corn crop. The soil was long since prepared, but conditions for planting have not been favorable for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Williams, formerly well known residents of this vicinity, but who have been making their home in western Iowa for the past eighteen years have been visiting old time friends and relatives in and about Granville for the past few days.

SEVENTEEN-YEAR LOCUST IS DUE IN FEW WEEKS

This is the year that the seventeen-year locust is due again, and in a few weeks he will make his appearance in the farms of the middle west. At least the authorities on locust lore and superstitions are sure he will, and they have never been mistaken in the past. No one seems to know exactly where the seventeen-year locust comes from, but it is a matter of record that he does show up regularly just the same, says the New York Times.

And the thing that is interesting the farmers and the old timers most is whether he will bring a "W" on his wings or a "P," as is hoped. "W" on a seventeen-year locust's wings means war. There is no reason under the sun that is known as to why it should always be either "W" or "P," but those are the only two letters that have been noticed. And also the locust lore experts have a good deal of statistical backing when they assert that if the "W" is on the wings it will surely mean war, and if the "P" is on the wings it will just as surely mean peace.

"In 1893, the last time the locusts were here," said an old commercial traveler the other day, "the wings bore a decided "W." And we promptly got into war with Spain. In 1876 I saw the "P" on the wings myself. And following that we had peace and plenty. I don't remember so far back as 1859, that is to say, I don't remember locusts back in those days, but I have been told by scores of old farmers that the seventeen-year kind showed up that year and bore "W" on each wing. The civil war followed.

"Some of the older generations of farmers have records in the old family Bible to prove that the former visitation of seventeen-year locusts that came in 1842 presaged the Mexican war by bearing "w" on their wings. I can tell you the farmers are not anxious to have them come, but they are all superstitious as to their variety as harbingers. When you come to think of it, this letter business seems like a very foolish superstition. But when you know that they do bear either the 'W' or 'P' and that the sign has never failed, what are you going to do about it?"

BEST SPRING TONIC

Every one should take a tonic in the Spring; our systems require it. The change in the seasons produces a like change in our bodies, and more is required of the blood, from which source we receive physical nourishment and strength, at this particular time than at any other.

Almost every one feels bad in the Spring. Some have no particular sickness, but are debilitated, run-down and weak, and their systems are in a general state of disorder. This deranged condition of the health is due to weak, anaemic blood; the circulation is infected with impurities which have diminished its natural nourishing powers, and the body is suffering from deficient blood nutriment. The refuse and impurities which naturally accumulate in our systems are not properly expelled in Winter, because those members whose duty it is to perform this work of drainage do not receive sufficient stimulation from outdoor exercise, and therefore grow dull and sluggish in their action; nor is the skin as active in eliminating waste maters in cold weather because the pores are not so open as in warm seasons.

These Winter accumulations pollute the blood and largely destroy its nutritive qualities, and when Spring comes, and everything takes on new life, and we change our method of living, the circulation is so weakened that it is unable to supply the increased demands of the system. Then we suffer from weakness, nervousness, loss of appetite, lassitude, etc. There is a constant worn-out feeling, sleep is not refreshing, and we do not feel able to perform the ordinary duties of daily life. This disordered condition demands the use of a tonic, and it should be one which has the additional qualities of a first class blood purifier, for to restore health and strength the blood must be pure.

The healthful botanical ingredients of which S. S. S. is composed, and the method of combining and preparing them so that they build up and strengthen every portion of the body, make it the best of all Spring tonics. S. S. S. is Nature's medicine, free from strong mineral mixtures and made entirely of the healing, cleansing juices and extracts of roots, herbs and barks; a safe and pleasant tonic for persons of any age.

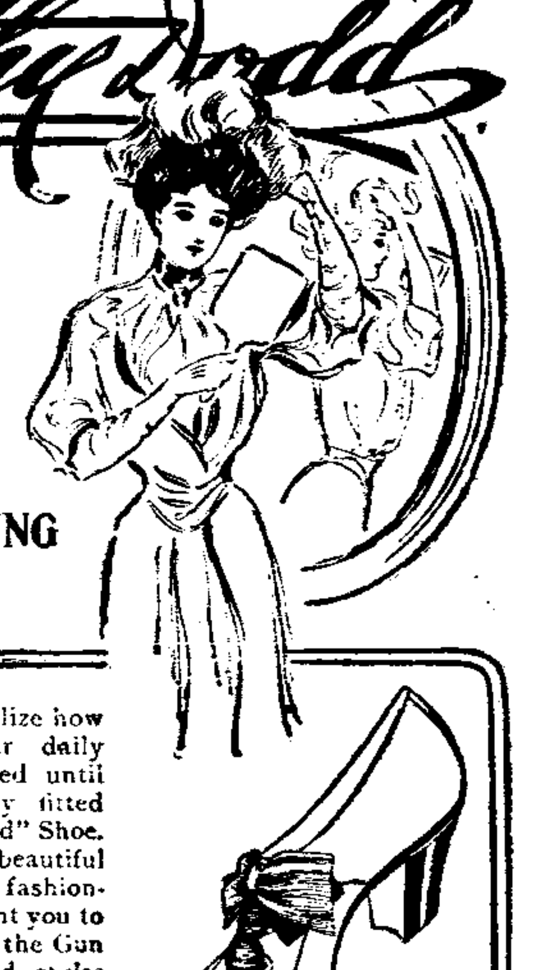

S. S. S. is not only the best Spring tonic, but its ability and worth as a genuine blood purifier is universally recognized. It builds up the depleted system in the true way, by purifying the blood and supplying an increased amount of nourishment to every portion of the body. S. S. S. removes all accumulations from the circulation, enriches and purifies the blood and overcomes the unpleasant physical ailments that always come with Spring. It rids the body of that tired feeling, improves the appetite, reinvigorates every fibre and tissue of the body, and imparts healthful energy to all who are run-down. The body cannot be strong and well if the blood is weak or impure, and no tonic should be used which does not thoroughly cleanse the circulation. If you select S. S. S. as your tonic this Spring you will experience better results and more vigorous health than ever before, because it will make your blood "just right." Insist on getting S. S. S., there is no other "just as good."

PRETTY GOOD EVIDENCE.

I have used S. S. S. and found it to be an excellent blood purifier and tonic. My blood was weak and impure, and as a result my system became very much run down and debilitated. I lost twenty or more pounds in weight, had no appetite and was in bad shape. Seeing S. S. S. advertised I began its use, and am well pleased with the results after using it for some little while. From 139 pounds to 165 is pretty good evidence of merit on the part of S. S. S., and as to my appetite, it is superb. My system and general health have been wonderfully built up, and I do not hesitate to give S. S. S. the credit for it. H. MARTIN.

ADVERTISING TALKS

A good story is told of a certain eastern banker who had spent a large amount of money in advertising and whose bank had sustained a remarkable growth. Suddenly he decided to abandon his publicity efforts—to drop all his advertisements as fast as the contracts expired. It so happened that he explained his position to an advertising solicitor one day in the presence of a third party—a friend of the banker—by saying that he had spent money enough in advertising, and had made his bank so well known that it would not need any further publicity of that kind. After the solicitor had left, empty-handed, the friend opened a conversation with the banker by saying:

"Say, W——, I have been trying to think of the name of that fellow who ran for Vice President on the ticket with Bryan in 1896. Help me out: what was his name?"

"Let me see—wha—what was his name?" responded the banker. Lemme think! What—what the devil was that fellow's name? Hanged if I can remember. 'Twasn't—"

"Don't you think you're a fine man," broke in the friend, "to be talking about having established your name so firmly that it could never be forgotten? Here was a man whose name was in the mouth of nearly every man, woman and child in the United States for months—who was advertised as you could never hope to be advertised—and yet he has passed completely out of your memory in a few short years. Oh, you're a good one, you are."

The friend left the banker looking for the telephone number of a certain newspaper.

W. A. Erman & Son Are Having a Wonderful Sale of Thompson's Barosma, the Mighty Kidney and Liver Specific.

And no wonder, when they offer to refund your money if it doesn't cure any disease of the kidneys, liver or bladder, back ache, side ache, nervousness, or any weakness of the kidneys.

But Thompson's Barosma has made so many almost miraculous cures that W. A. Erman & Son are pretty certain not to have any returns.

Here are a few instances:

Frank K. Sturges, Sturtevant, Crawford, Co., Pa., was cured of Bright's disease six years ago, and only took 6 bottles. He has had no bad symptoms since.

"I had kidney trouble and enlargement of the liver and spleen. I took Thompson's Barosma. The first bottle reduced the measurement around my stomach from 45 to 36 inches, and several bottles completely cured me."—M. S. Langford, Tyronville, Pa.

Mrs. Fred Lebelintz, of Titusville, Pa., writes that her four year old son was permanently cured of chronic bed-wetting with 3 bottles of Thompson's Barosma.

Orson Hopkins, of Townville, Pa., was refused life insurance because of kidney complaint, and told that he would not live many months. Five bottles cured him, as it has cured thousands before him and thousands since.

After suffering the terrible agony of rheumatism for 10 years, being compelled to use crutches, J. N. Dunn, Troy Center, Pa., after all hope had left him and he had no faith in any remedy, took 6 bottles of Thompson's Barosma, threw away his crutches, and went to work for the first time in 10 years.

These statements are absolutely true, and the Thompson Medical Co., Titusville, Pa., will prove it. Then why should anyone suffer in the face of such facts. How can they suffer when W. A. Erman & Son guarantee to refund the money if a cure is not effected. Thompson's Barosma, 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle.

Politicians Believe First Trouble of King Will Occur in Taking the Parliamentary Oath.

London, May 11.—King George's first message to parliament, announcing his father's death, was read to both houses today. Members listened with bared heads. Both houses adopted messages of condolence.

Churchmen and politicians believe today that King George's first trouble will result from his objection to the anti-Catholic character oath he must take on opening his first parliament. The majority of the population is opposed to any change and a religious controversy between the Catholics and Protestants may follow the king's determination to eliminate parts of the oath.

There is lively speculation as to whether King George will align himself with the Free Masons, following the immemorial custom of the English monarchs.

The eagerness of court physicians to deny that the queen mother is at all sick has given rise to the apprehension that she is really ill. There is also fear that the new king is overtaxing his strength. He works constantly and has averaged only four hours' sleep a day since the death of Edward.

SALLY MAKES A CAPTURE

By ROGER BIRCE

"Robin," said Sally, her face close to mine.

"Yes, Sally."

"Don't go; everything is lonesome."

"Robin Cowper has given the word of an honest gentleman of the road to meet the coach at 9 tonight."

Gently I put her from me. She brushed away a tear, then, brightening:

"I'll go, too."

"A petticoat to fight the king's guards?"

"Petticoat, no; coat and breeches, yes."

"Too dangerous, Sally. Wait till the coach goes unguarded."

"Robin, you have taught me the sword; you know my mettle. If you think me a coward, go and—find a woman who isn't."

"Pardon me, Sally! Come along! I'll get a horse."

I borrowed a fine roan and we galloped, she side-saddle, to Forest Inn. The lads wore serious faces. It was a bad job, yet, if we won, we could quit the road for a year, so great was the stake.

"Our newest member," I said introducing Sally. Giles laughed and welcomed her, but some sneered—until they caught my eye.

Mine host, Harlow, found a cavalier's suit that fitted Sally so she looked like a boy, but no boy ever showed fair face that valored me for deeds of such daring.

"The best steel in the company, boy," said Giles, handing her a blade, as a dozen of us galloped into Southcombe forest. The lads caught the name "boy" and called her no other.

Dud Hobart had been raised to command of the troops sent with the coach from Edencourt to guard the king's gold. We would put a prank on him, so, at a spot buried deep in the gloom, we cut the trunk of a tree till it was nearly ready to fall. We waited amid shadows.

The riders came on. Our horses, well trained, moved not an ear. The troopers had just passed the weakened tree, when a couple of lads put shoulder against it and it fell crashing across the highway, cutting off troopers from coach.

You may believe there was scrambling. The troopers wheeled, but their horses would not go through the thick branches. The noodles tumbled over each other out of the coach. When they looked into a dozen black masks they made dismal noise. It looked an easy job. I climbed into the coach and rolled out kegs of gold.

Now, it happened that some one (I can't believe it was dullpate Dud) had put on rear guard, which came dashing up and set up my cullies just when Dud's fellows, having dismounted, came to the rescue of the gold. Outnumbered two to one, my lads never had more furious fighting.

Dud espied me and pumped for the coach door to cut me through as I bent to pass out. Sally, quick-eyed for my safety, engaged him. Too agile for him, she pricked him and got away from every slash. It could not last long. He was too ponderous, her sword arm too much a dainty woman's. He saw me nearing, gave a savage lunge at Sally to make her skip back, then turned upon me.

Now happend a woman's trick which I still laugh at. Sally's arm weary, she cast down weapon, and being behind Dud, next instant had both hands in his hair—woman's most natural way of fighting. Men brave to face death cannot endure being pulled bald. Sally jerked sharply with one hand, then the other, and every jerk made Dud wince. He backed and she steered him toward the trees, where Kit and the roan stood. Gripping a keg under each arm, I followed, ready to use sword if Dud broke away.

I signaled a lad to grip more kegs, then whistled them all into the forest. Three had been cut down. Half the king's men were on the ground. Once we were among the trees, the traps were afraid to follow.

"Let go Dud's hair, boy," I said to Sally.

"He's my prisoner."

"Where with him?"

"To Forest inn."

"And then?"

"Petticoats for him."

Sally and I escorted Dud back to Edencourt, he strapped to his horse and his hands tied behind. Boldly we dashed into town at full gallop, hitched his horse to a post in the public square and sped away, leaving townsmen and girls to make merry at his plight.

To this day Dud is hunting for the boy that made him into a woman.

Prepared for the Worst.

"Good gracious, old man," exclaimed Ascum, "what sort of a suit is that?"

"This," replied Dingley, who was attired in a combination of football, gold and riding clothes, "is what you might call a suit for damages. I'm going up to ask old Roxley for his daughter."

Find Use for Peat Gas.

Consul-General Robert J. Wynne of London, reports that before a committee of the British house of commons interesting details were given of the scheme for establishing in Ireland a new electric supply generated by peat gas, the first of the kind in Great Britain.

SAVED THE SITUATION.

What Caused Her to Sigh a Great Contented Sigh.

She raised her head from his shoulder for a moment.

"Do you believe that exercise, and lotions, and toilet preparations will improve a woman's looks?"

He pressed her blond curls back upon his chest.

"They couldn't improve the looks of some women," he said.

"Whose?" she asked.

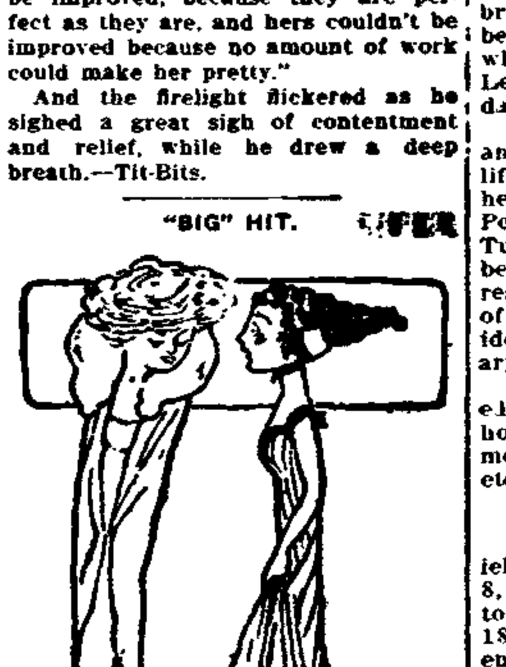

"Well, yours and Violet Cochrane's, for instance," he replied thoughtlessly.

"I don't understand you," she said, raising her head for the second time, and chilling him with a look. "We are not at all alike."

"I mean," he replied, turning her head for the second time, and thinking quicky, "that your looks couldn't be improved, because they are perfect as they are, and hers couldn't be improved because no amount of work could make her pretty."

And the firelight flickered as he sighed a great sigh of contentment and relief, while he drew a deep breath.—Tit-Bits.

"BIG" HIT.

"Aren't my new slippers attractive?"

"My dear, they're immense."—New York Telegram.

She Was Too Quick.

There were three at the little table in the cafe, a lady and two men.

Suddenly the electric lights went out and the lady quickly and noiselessly drew back.

An instant later there was the smack of a compound kiss. As the electric lights went up each man was seen smiling complaisantly.

"I thought I heard a kiss," said the lady, "but nobody kissed me."

Then the men suddenly glared at each other and flushed and looked painfully sheepish.

An Animated Mirror.

Mark Twain is constantly receiving photographs from men who have been told that they look like him. The latest one is from Florida, and Mr. Clemens is said to have written the following acknowledgement:

"I thank you very much for your letter and the photograph. In my opinion you are more like me than any of my doubles. In fact, I am sure that if you stood before me in a mirrorless frame, I could shave by you."

Making a Diagnosis.

Physican.—"From a hasty examination, I am of the opinion that you are suffering from clergyman's sore throat."

Patient.—"The—you say!"

Physician (quickly).—"But it is quite possible I am wrong. I will look again."

The Endless Chain.

"Why do you want wealth?" asked the philosopher.

"For the sake of the power it will bring me," replied the financier.

"And why do you desire power?"

"For the sake of the wealth it will enable me to accumulate."

Utterly Alone.

Eva was a little out of sorts.

"It is intolerable," she said.

"What is intolerable?" he asked.

She sank upon a stone in sheer despair.

"Just think," she said, "there is no other woman's husband with whom I can make invidious comparisons."

Even ExChange.

Angry Patron—That's the third time you've given me the wrong number. You must have what they call the telephone ear.

Girl in Central Office—I beg your pardon, sir, but that isn't the trouble. You have what we call the cornmeal mush voice.

Stores Unnecessary.

"Ah gottuh git a chicken foh mah brekfuss."

"Why, it's nearly midnight, Mose. Aren't all the stores closed?"

"Yessuh. Ah 'spec so. Did you'all wanter buy sumfin?"

A Crying Need.

"What do you consider the most crying need of the age?"

"I don't know; but if you had said the most crying need of the night I should have said sterilized milk."

Not Afraid.

"Pa, I wish we were Christian Scientists."

"Why?"

"'Coz. Willie Green's folks are, an' he ain't afraid to eat green apples."

Too Often.

Husband—You never kiss me except when you want some money.

Wife—Well, isnt that often enough?

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN W. GREEN.

Mrs. Mary Irwin Green, wife of John W. Green, of 539 Hudson avenue, passed peacefully away at her home Tuesday evening at 5:30 o'clock, of congestion of the lungs and a nervous trouble which has caused her illness since last Christmas, although she had been bedfast for only the past 6 days. Mrs. Green would have been 72 years of age next July. Besides the husband, the deceased is survived by four children, Misses Nina and Jennie Green, of the home, Charles Green, of West Newark, and John Green of Nashville, Mich.; three sisters, Mrs. Albert Rogers, of Marysville, O., Mrs. James Painter, of Columbus, Mrs. Sarah Parkinson, of North Dakota, and a brother, Robert Irwin, of Minnesota, besides ten grandchildren, three of whom, Mary, Florence and John Lemert, children of a deceased daughter, reside at the Green home.

Mrs. Green was born near Etna, and has lived the greater part of her life in this county. Mrs. Green and her family moved to Newark from Perryton just 29 years ago last Tuesday, since which time they have been well known, highly esteemed residents. Mrs. Green was a member of the First M. E. church and was identified with its Foreign Missionary Society and Woman's Guild.

Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. L. C. Sparks at the late home Friday at 2 p. m., and interment will be made in Cedar Hill cemetery.

THOMAS J. OWENS.

Thomas J. Owens, the son of Daniel and Jane Owens, was born Nov. 8, 1831, in North Wales. He came to this country with his parents in 1842, and settled at Newark. He enlisted during th eCivil War in Co. C, 27th Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and served from 1861 to 1866. After the war he settled at Dawn, Mo., where he lived until about a year ago, when he returned to the old home. He united with the First Congregational church, Newark, in 1864. Several years later he joined the Baptist church at Dawn, Mo., of which church he was a member at the time of his death.

Mr. Owens has been in poor health for some years. He passed away on Tuesday, May 10, leaving three brothers and three sisters to mourn their loss.

Funeral services will be held at the home of Mrs. Elias Davis, north of town, Thursday, May 12, at 1:30 p. m., Revs. T. H. Warner and J. A. Bennett officiating. Interment at Cedar Hill.

Blood Poison can never be cured with mercury or potash. You might as well know this first as last. Medical authorities say so. The most these drugs can do is to drive the blood poison back into the system and smother it for several years. Then when you think you are cured, pitiful mercury symptoms will break out, and you find that your bones have been rotting all the while. Your teeth will begin to loosen and your tissues, glands, brain and vital organs will show the terrible destructive work of the mercury and potash. Locomotor Ataxia, Paralysis, Imbecility and Premature Death are then almost inevitable. Any medical authority will corroborate these statements. ## SPLENDID MEETING threes in the court house park, many of which need attention.

Mr. Vair said that the court house park was one of the beauty spots of Newark, chiefly because of the big trees that surround the county building. He said that in no other city in the state that he had visited were there so many trees as in Newark, or so many centered in the business districts. However, these trees in the park are in need of attention and with a little work these trees could be put in condition to live practically indefinitely.

The trees were planted in 1820 as a sort of memorial to a Mr. Black, and they have grown and thrived, but the natural process of decay, coming from neglect, is setting in, and where there were sixty at first, but forty remain now. The speaker declared that the modern science of tree surgery has made it possible to save trees and this they want to do to the trees in Newark's square.

Mr. Vair concluded his address by reading a paper he had written on "Trees and the Lives They Live." which was decidedly interesting and instructive.

A Clever Speaker.

One of Newark's well known citizens, a man who adopted this city as his home and has lived here forty years, Dennis Kearney, was then introduced with a few appropriate remarks by Toastmaster McDonald. He was assigned the subject, "The Workingman in the Business World," and his speech was one of the best of the evening.

Mr Kearney, always a witty speaker, was at his best last night, and his common sense remarks were interspersed with clever stories that convulsed his hearers. He said that when but a child in his mother's arms they were evicted and forced to leave Ireland. Then he went to London and for 11 years he drove a team in the largest city in the world. Forty years ago he came to Newark expecting to stay over night, but he got a job wheeling gravel in a wheelbarrow when the Shawnee division of the B. & O. was being constructed, and save for short intervals he has lived here ever since.

Mr Kearney is certainly a loyal citizen of Newark and his enthusiastic remarks were frequently punctuated with applause. In his estimation the United States is the greatest country in the world and Newark is one of the greatest cities, though not in population of course.

"The best people on earth live here," Mr Kearney said, "and they are all good—only some are better than others." In his estimation the Business Men's Association is bound to be a big thing for Newark, and he is pleased that the association was formed for the purpose of boosting the interests of the city.

In referring to [illegible] he said he had heard much recently about money troubles and high prices, but he said if prices were high, wages are higher, too, and living is easier. He stated that once he received $1.00 a day as wages and lived on 50 cents and managed to get along.

Most of the trouble regarding money is caused by street agitators who preach to the workingmen that the trusts are making the money and the workingmen are being trodden, and the men believe it.

"You can't get away from the trusts, they are a great thing [illegible] they pay good wages and where can you find a man that will employ 225 men and pay good wages [illegible] as the [illegible] does. All they need is regulation."

Mr Kearney made one suggestion that seemed to strike a favorable chord among those present, when he said that more seats were needed in the court house park, or else that the [illegible] to keep them at night [illegible] These men like to come [illegible] and watch the people and see what is going on, but [illegible] get seats [illegible] all the time.

Mr Kearney's speech was given a very prolonged applause and he was forced to bow several times.

Rev. Joseph A. Bennett in reviewing the topics spoken on, said [illegible] citizens of Newark will respond to any honest effort to help the city and the people should assist in enlarging the public library. A public library is a vital thing to a city. Good books are necessary for the education of the people, for they should read wisely and read widely."

In referring to the building code that Mr. Goodwin spoke of, Mr. Bennett said that he thought it a very good thing and doubtless many fires would be prevented if buildings were properly constructed and looked after.

He said that if twenty trees have died in the court house park, undoubtedly something should be done to preserve the ones remaining, for the park adds greatly to the appearance of the business section of the city.

He highly complimented Mr. Kearney on his speech, and said that poor men should not abuse the rich nor the rich the poor and the lining up of the factions is a dangerous thing. The laboring men should be encouraged, but they should not become anarchists. He said the men would not be poor if they had the ability to be rich, and factions should not develop.

Mr. Edward Kibler then said that a few years ago he attended a banquet of railroad men at Fairmont when Superintendent Fitzgerald of the B. & O. took office, and at that banquet were the president of the road, the governors of four states and men high in the legal profession. Many speeches were made and the last man called on was Dennis Kearney of this city, and his speech was the best of the evening. After he had finished the four governors all asked to be introduced to him, for his oratory had won for him a place in the hearts of all the men present.

Mr. C. H. Spencer, president of the Board of Trade, then extended the invitation of the Buckeye Lake Yacht club for the Business Men's association to be present May 24 at their club house. He said that special cars would carry them to the lake and that the boats of the club would be at their disposal and a good time could be promised for the day. Col. Wells will have charge of the culinary arrangements and a good dinner can be expected.

President Beggs said that this would be the last meeting unless it was decided to hold a meeting at the lake on the day they were invited to be present.
